SEPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. NEWARK, N. J., July 2 .- " Who can he be?" "He is surely a stranger in thes parts." "Must have been murdered.

Fine looking fellow. These are a few of the remarks dropped b the townspeople this morning as they stood in Woodruff's gloomy morgue about the corpse which was found in the Passaic River yesterday.

James Reilly and John Morrison saw th body first.

It was lying on a sand bar in the river o the Hudson County side.

The day was gloomy, a thin rain was fall ing and the river was comparatively deserted of craft of any kind.

While the men were watching the body a rolling wave washed the sand bar and sent the poor reliet upon it, tossing and tumbling the poor reliet upon it, tossing and tumbling through the river towards the Newark shore. Opposite Madison street Policemen Edwarks and Connor put out in a small boat and made fast to the body with a rope, and then towed it to land.

County Physician Hewlett was notified, and he made an examination of the body. He thinks, and the police agree with him, that the man was murdered, because an inchitick hawser was fastened about the neck by a half hitch.

Fifty pounds of iron weighted the other end of the rope.

In life the man weighed about two hundred pounds and was very muscular.

pounds and was very muscular.

He had on when found a colored flannel shirt, trousers and socks only. Curious designs in India ink were worked out on his arms and shoulders.

His hair was black and he had a mustache of the same color.

He had been in the water so long that his face was so badly decomposed as to be unrecognizable.

Judging from general appearances, though, he was a scafaring man from some foreign country.

Police Capt. Daly, who is investigating the case, said to an Evening World reporter

this morning:
"I think the man was killed on board some one of the many schoolers which come up the Passaic, and that his murderers, to hide all trace of their crime, put the rone about his neck with the iron attached and then dropped it overboard."

"Might be not have committed suicide?"

"Might be not have committed suicide?"
the reporter asked,
"Not very well, judging from the manner in which the rope was tied," he replied.
"Of course it is hard to tell whether the man died by violence or not because of the condition of the body, but we mean to do the best we can to clear up the mystery," he concluded.

It had not been decided this morning
whether to bury the body to-day or keep it

A CHEAP SWINDLE.

How Some Irresponsible Parties Try to Cheat the Public Out of a Cent.

Cheat the Public Out of a Cent.

To the Editor of The Evening World

I beg to inclose a corner of your Sunday edition for which I have paid six cents, instead of the usual five cents. You will observe the retailer has put stickers over the heading, advertising another paper and changing the printed price to six cents. Kindly say through your evening paper if I have to submit myself to the new tariff. I don't see why lathough your paper is the most interesting Sunday paper! I should pay more for it than for the other papers,

A CONSTANT HEADER.

Most decidedly, "Constant Reader" or any one else is not obliged to submit to the petty swindle perpetrated upon him. The price of the Sunday Would is five cents. Everybody knows that. There are only a few unscrupulous parties among the many hundreds of newsdealers in this vicinity who will lend themselves to such a low-down swindle as described by Constant Reader. The way to resent such an imposition s to decline to further patronize the dealer responsible for it. - (Fig. Wonld).

> Still another steal upon the people, and one which in this oppressively hot season of the year is simply cruel. If there is one necessity greater than another in this beated city, it is ice. Every family, however poor, must have it or suffer terribly perhaps to the sickness or death of some of their loved ones.

Well, to-day the ice dealers raised the price of ice 33 to 37 per cent. From 40 to 55 cents per hundred pounds at one jump. This was the sentence and it was put into execution in a hundred thousand homes this morning.

The wholesale price heretofore has been $3 per ton, now it is $4.

This was not the first increase this year. Step by step and inch by inch the price was put up until the poor family's morning piece of ice got almost infinitesimal. Besides its immediate effect in the homes of the poor, the increase has the effect of raising the price of almost every other family raising the price of almost every other family supply. Butchers, grocers, fishmongers and other tradesmen are raising the price of their goods accordingly, and with usury thereto.

The ice barons knew that in the midst of Summer everybody must look to them for a supply of the cooling substance, and they were quick to see their chance to add a few dollars more to their overloaded wallets by pilfering the hard-earned money of the poor.

The rich men are out of town now and the The rich men are out of town now and the advance does not affect them, but the fami-lies of the wage-earner, who are cooped up in stuffy, closet-like rooms in dingy tenement.

stuffy, closet-like rooms in dingy tenement-houses, are made to pay a tax on this article of necessity, for it is necessary to keep life in many of their little ones.

The increase is already felt not alone in the purchase of ice itself but in the price of many other necessities as well.

The butchers have been paying $3 a ton; now they will pay $4. They say the profit on meat a very small in the Summer time, and so to protect themselves they have put up the price of meat.

A butcher uptown calculates that the advance in the price of ice will increase the butchers bills 10 per cent.

The grocer is compelled to pay the increase in the price of ice and will make it up by raising the price of butter and, in some instances, by cutting off a small portion of the weight and by putting a little more water in the milk the weight and by putting a little more water in the milk.

In the Amexed District the advance has been much sharper. Families have been served at the rate of 50 cents per hundred weight, but when they were served this morning they were told that hereafter the price would be 65 cents.

This is an unheard of figure.

Of course, the ice dealers say that they are forced to it by natural conditions. They set up the same old familiar claim that has been made year after year that the crop is short, and that the extreme warm weather is destroying the stock on hand.

This excuse though will hardly hold, in view of what the driver of a wagon told an Eventon World the driver of a wagon told an Eventon World the driver of a wagon told on the wather is coming on now and everybody sgot to have it. So the Company is perfectly safe in putting up the now and everybody's got to have it. So the Company is perfectly safe in putting up the price to anything it chooses.

"If the people don't like it they can go somewhere else, but wherever they go they'll have to pay the same price, so what's the use in their kicking. The Company's got 'em where their hair is short."

An Evening Womer reporter called at the office of the Knickerbocker Ice Company, 432 Campl street, this morning.

the reporter was waiting.

"The reason for the increase," said he,
"is very natural. Last Winter was what is known as an open one. There was only a partial supply gathered, and that makes the price higher.
"All the small towns and villages around

New York gather their ice supply from local onds.

"That is hard to say," answered President Maclay. "It will all depend on how the supply holds out and what the outside depends are."

mands are."

Many tirms have made contracts with the Many firms have made contracts with the companies to be supplied at a certain rate, which is in some cases as low as 25 cents a hundred weight.

But while they are getting their supply of the cooling article at this low rate the poor man, who is unable to make a contract, will be paying for it at the rate of 50, 60 and 70 cents and even higher, for a great many buy their supply by the five or 10 cents' worth, and who ever saw twenty pounds of ic. and who ever saw twenty pounds of ice served out of a wagon for 10 cents unless it was in the dead of Winter. In thousands of homes in this city to-day the question is being asked: "Doesn't the law say that combinations to raise the price of the necessities of life is criminal, and can't it be stopped?"

In a Frightful Railway Smashup and Fire in Virginia.

Passengers and Train Employees Cremated in the Wreck.

A Corps of Physicians and Many Citizens Hurry to the Awful Scene.

It Is Said that Not More than Seven People Escaped.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
LIBERTY, Va., July 2.—A fearful catastrophe occurred about a mile west of Thaxton at 1.20 this morning, on the Norfock and Western Railroad, by which about forty passengers were killed.

The accident was caused by a washout on a high fill. An informer here says that there were only about seven of the crew and passengers saved. Some of the cars and passengers were burned.

Capt. Rowland Johnson was in charge of the train and is mortally wounded. Baggage master Ford is said to be very badly hurt. Major J. C. Cassell, Superintendent of the Lynchburg division, was on the train and vas seriously injured.

Mr. L. B. Summers, of Abingdon, a postal clerk, was bruised up considerably. The other postal clerk, J. J. Rose, Abingdon, was killed.

All of the physicians and many of the citizens of Liberty went to the wreck as soon as nformation was received here.

Pat Donovan was the engineer and burned up, as was also the fireman. A man named Bruce Lifsey, train spatcher, was also burned.

Several of the wounded was brought here and taken to the Sanitarium. W. C. Stead, of Cleveland, Tenn., mong the dead.

Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson, of Baltimore, s reported among the badly injured.

The identity of the young man who committed suicide in the Union Square Hotel vesterday was established to-day. He was Edward Ho demaker, son of s fessor in the Amsterdam University. He went into the holel a few minutes before midnight on Sunday and ordered a room. He was given a room on the fourth floor. He was slightly under the influence of liquor, but conducted himself cheerfully in a gentlemanly way.

He hesitated when asked to register, then took the pen and in a fine hand wrote: " Edward Lang, of Chicago."

This done he said to the clerk:

'Call me at 10 o'clock in the morning ure," and went to his room. He was called time and again at 10 o'clock esterday morning, but did not answer.

His door was broken open and there he was found dead in bed, with his trousers, socks and shirt on. It seemed as if he had Two half-ounce bottles labelled morphine ere found empty behind the steam heater. He had $2 and a ticket marked "Koster &

Bial's, 144 pounds, June 25."

The body was taken to an undertaker's shop at 355 Fourth avenue, and there a young man called to see it this morning.

He said he identified the body and said that

Larry was not the dead one's right name.

He said to the undertaker: "I must refuse

"He used to work in Miller's drug store at Eleventh street and University place, but has been disappointed in love and was lately very melancholy and dissipated.

"I received a letter from him Sunday saying that he was going to kill himself, but as he had frequently told me the same thing before I paid no attention to it. He was a single man, and his parents are well-to-doresidents of Amsterdam."

Later the young man went to the Coroner's office and obtained a burial permit. An Evening World man saw him this afternoon in Muller's drug store. He refused to tell his own name, but gave the reporter some information about the suicide.

"His real name is Edward Hoedenmaker," he said, "and his father is a professor of medicine in the University of Amsterdam and is very wealthy.

"The young man had a quarrel with his father a few years ago and came to this country. He studied in the College of Pharmacy and graduated there a year ago." A minister who used to be in a church at Fred Carloton, the seventeen-year-old aprint-runner, has received no response to his chal-lenge to all runners of his age, and to-night he will run with Peter Hegelman a five-mile race for $50 a side.

"A minister who used to be in a church at Twenty-ninth street and Fifth avenue, got him a position at Schieffein's wholesale drug house in William street. He left there a short time ago and went to Muller's.

"He received $18 a week for his services there."

The cause of his suicide is not positively known, but he was desperately in love with a girl on whom he used to spend all his money. "Every Friday he used to take her to Coney Island and frequently came home penniless.

I met Miss Nellie, I don't know her last name, but she lives at 906 Sixth avenue, last night, and when I told her of Eddie's death she laughed outright and said he was a fool.

The reporter called at 906 Sixth avenue and the colored woman told him that Miss Dayton was in. After a consultation with some one, however, she came back and said that Miss Nellie was not in. The name on the door plate is Dayton.

BRICKS FOR MISS ESCOBAR.

Propelled by some unseen force a red brick travelled through East Twenty-eighth street about 1 o'clock this morning and hit Miss Marie Escobar on the head as she swung on the old-fashioned wooden gate leading to Miss Sooter's boarding-house, which stands away back in the lot at 225 East Twenty-eighth street. Another followed, but fell short.

Miss Escobar fell and screamed and blood Miss Escobar fell and screamed and blood spurted from the cut in her head inflicted by the brick.

There is a fire-house a few doors west of the boarding house, and several firemen rushed to Miss Escobar's assistance.

She is a petite young thing and they had little difficulty in standing her on her feet again. By that time Policeman Ryan of the East Thirty-fifth street station, arrived on the seen and took charge of the ceremonies.

He drove the crowd away, r ng for an ambulance, pitied Miss Escobar and held her in his manily embrace until the ambulance arrived, when he saw her safely off for Bellevue Hospital. Miss Escobar gave her name as Miss John-Dr. Biggs, who attended her, says she is Dr. Biggs, who attended her, says she is not seriously injured.

She could not say who fired the brick at her, but other tenants in the boarding-house say thet it is not the first time she has been hit with a brick.

hit with a brick.

They say she was struck on the arm with one only a few nights ago. She went to Miss Scoter's six weeks ago in company with a chum named Tillie Johnson.

Miss Escobar is not pitied much by her fellow-boarders, who say that any young woman who hangs out at the garden gate after midnight should get hit with a brick.

They was also a story affect in the vicinity. There was also a story affoat in the vicinity this morning that one of the firemen who went first to the girl's assistance was also struck by an unknown brick, fired by some unknown person: but at the fire-house no intermation would be given this morning.

Police Capt, Ryan is investigating the case, and will subject the brick to a rigid cross-examination, and possibly a chemical analysis, to see if he cannot get some clue to the bold, bad man who is supposed to have thrown it.

The wounded girl says her companion at the time the bricks were thrown was the "Captain." It is a coincidence that Capt. James Nugent went on the suck list early this morning and that Lieut. Jones took his No one would say what ailed Nugent or CAUTION .--- Alleged formulæ of the articles known as The Recamier Preparations were published in a morning paper. They are false and are not the formulæ used by me in compounding the articles in question. I employ no agents, and the public is warned against swindlers, discharged employees or persons representing themselves as connected with the Recamier Manufacturing Company. Mrs. HARRIET HUBBARD ATER. MER. HARRIET HUBBARD AVEL.

DEAR MADAM: We have, in accordance with your wish, inspected your works, studied the processes and examined the materials used in the preparation of Récamier Cream. Our opinions in the matter are as follows:

The constituents of the Récamier Cream are well-known remedial agents, and their properties are fully lescribed and authorized in the American and French Pharmacoporias.

They are combined in a way which, while novel, is chemically correct, the resulting preparation being per ectly cafe and beneficial for the uses specified. In the proper sense of the word, I sametic, but a remedial agent for the skin.

The average druggist would be unable to put up Recamier Cream from the correct formula, since the oper tions involved in its successful production require mechanical manipulations for which he is not prepared and which would be difficult, if not practically impossible, on a small scale. Nor if he had the apparatus and mechanical appliances required in its production could be make it as cheaply as you do unless he went into the manufacture es an equally large scale and bought the ingredients in large quantities. Prepared in small amounts the selling pri t be considerably higher than that fixed by you Yours very respectfully,
